

in general one needs to take into account all resonances and the interference between possible decay channels at the nuclear level then, again, one must include initial state physics (with approaches similar to those used for QE scattering) and final state interaction effects (pion rescattering).

DIS region:

at the single nucleon level \rightarrow structure functions which can be related to parton distribution functions